

The Celestial-by churien

It is a night like every other night, and you decide to take a rest from adventuring. Instead of returning to the hole that you call your home as usual, you enter your friend's hole to their surprise. They welcome you with a slice of Last Resort that you dig into heartily. While enjoying your Last Resort, you whip out your phone and open the SimpleMMO app (?!). Soon, your friend and you are playing SimpleMMO together.

Your face lights up as you see the celestial blue colour on the travel page. You immediately open the chat tab. As expected, there are plenty of 'gz' 'grats' 'lucky' messages congratulating you.

'Hey, don't you already have this equipped?'

'Oh, you're right. Getting celestial is still good though. You can have it if you'd like.'

You return to chat to address the congratulatory messages. Before you can even type 'thanks guys', the screen is overlaid by an unexpected call and the tone startles you momentarily. You accept the call. Bringing the phone speaker to your ear, you catch a ramblingly insistent voice, '...no they'd like it more if you send them the spare STR thing you already have instead of the DEF celestial you just got...'

You interrupt the caller to demand their identity. Upon hearing who the caller claims to be, you turn to your friend.

'Oh dude, your dad is trying to give me advice on SMMO'

'What? I don't have a dad...'

'Then who was phone?!'